Dedicated to the Spirit of Adventure

May all who journey forth from Austin High ever remember: that the best race is still to be run; the greatest invention still to be made; the most glorious adventure still to be experienced; and may none ever lose the spirit of eager adventure, which is,

The True Spirit of Youth.

29

Foreword

ADVENTURE, the keynote of the world's history, the basis of all progress and invention, the very essence of courage and strength, and the color and glamour of all romance.

YOUTH, the symbol of all that is beautiful, upright and true, with hopes and golden ideals that rise dauntless and unafraid.

We have tried to weave these two great Passwords of Life into your Annual, and thus give you both a memory book of school Adventures and an inspiration to carry on courageously in the years to come.

And now as "Sign my Annual" rings through Austin's halls, we wish to express our appreciation to the many who have helped make this Annual what it is; to the teachers and student body, who have made us feel all along that they were supporting the project; and to the personnel of the Severinghaus Printing Company, the Russell Photographic Studio and the Osgood Engraving Company who have given us invaluable service and good advice.

A special thanks is due Miss Pellens and Mr. Berens who have as advisers and friends, added so much joy to this Adventure, that attempts are futile to express what is in our hearts.

Grateful record is also made of the help of Frances Gordon and Ethel Doolittle, who tho not members of the staff, at times made themselves invaluable members of the crew.

Appreciations would be incomplete unless the Editor made special mention of her colleagues of Art, Editorial and Business Staffs. It is perhaps not generally known that, whereas in most high school annuals, the bulk of the art work is that of professional artists; here at Austin every item of art and adornment in the Maroon and White is the work of the student art staff who from the moment they received the motif, have worked untiringly to fill this book with beauty and color.

And so as turning these pages, you find all those many things that have places in your heart and have made your trip through Austin one joyous Adventure, may the years to come bring the realization of an even fuller and more joyous Adventure through Life.

The book is yours, and its contents, we hope, a happy trip through Austin Land. Your passage is booked on the Spirit of Youth. All Aboard—ever to Adventure new.

FACULTY

WILBUR H. WRIGHT
Principal

IN dedicating this, your Annual, to the Spirit of Adventure, you are taking the first step towards making your dreams of future romance come true. For, dreaming is the first step in the realization of romance. Your life will now continue in your efforts to be based and founded on your day dreams. Let us therefore, encourage these youthful visions in our lives, for youth, and hope, and ambition—magic carpets of achievement—will be the basis of your high adventures.

MISS EULA DEATON
Dean of Girls

Sometime or other in your school years
Your path has led you to the office door—
You pause a minute, torn by cruel fears,
Repenting all you ever did before;
But if you are a girl, you know it's true
You'll get the very squarest kind of deal;
You've got a friend there, sticking up for you,
The kind you trust, the kind you always feel
Will understand, and censure just and fair.
And everybody feels just that way
About our dean of girls, with whom we share
The common joys and cares of every day.
The best things in this life, you'll find, are free;
That's why we have Miss Deaton's sympathy.

GRADUATES passport for the Outward Bound Special, sailing June twenty-sixth by way of the A. H. S. Knowledge Harbor, en route to Treasured Ports along Life's Coast Line. After stopovers at various colleges and universities and visits to great business centers, the trip will be resumed with individual ships and compasses. May you steer yours so well that the treacherous under currents of obstacles and defeat will be left far behind as you enter the peaceful waters of Success Harbor. So long, good luck, a pleasant trip.

Class Song '29

(Tune: "Song of Songs For Me")

I.

Out of the harbor of thee,
We venture forth on life's sea;
Glorious dream ports in view,
Beckon as we bid adieu.

Chorus

This is the song of songs for me,
Portrait of towers rising free,
Friendships and joys they've brought to me,
Leaving them all, we'll still remember.
We raise our hearts to ideals true,
Austin our thanks belongs to you,
And cause we're finer thru and thru,
Dear Austin High, we say, we love you.

FRANCES GORDON
VIRGINIA MUELLER

Bon Voyage

We're going to miss you when you go,
You'll leave an empty space
And there's no one else we know,
Who quite can take your place.
Now life's adventure you must plan
And, nobly must you dare
To win what gold and fame you can
And still be on the square.
So always keep the golden rule,
And in all the things you do,
Youthful, hearty, Adventurer
"To thine own self be true."

In Memoriam

DOROTHY VIRGINIA AMOS

Her life was a true reflection of her artistic and beauty-loving nature. To know her was to love her; to love her was to understand the fineness of her character and the joy of her friendship: and having loved her, we shall always cherish that infinitely dear memory of her lovely, wholesome, girlhood.

Jack Adventure, lean, and brown, and young, was discouraged—life was a tame affair after all. He sighed, wandered disconsolately to the window, and glanced out; suddenly he stiffened. Snatching his cane, he all but speared Alan Doner, who came rushing in.

"Hurry, hurry," shouted Alan, seizing Adventure's arm and dragging him through the door. "You've made 'Hank' hold the ship an hour for you," and it was all Sgt. "Gene" Bond could do to keep Allyn Brooks, Louis Lange, and Ethel Freeman from mutiny.

The S. S. '29½ was already weighing anchor when they sprinted up the gangplank into the waiting arms of Jerome Pinkus, and Arthur Silver, the welcoming committee.

As the ship neared the first of several gorges, a huge arrow painted on the rocks and marked with a scholarship star attracted Helen Hirt, Slava Doseff, Marian Keane, Ralph Nelson, and Willard Hein. At a sign from Jack they climbed into one of the boats.

Just a large Maroon & White "A" marked the next gorge, but at its appearance a rush ensued. "Line up, fellows, line up." Now baseball—Bullat, Wilson and Elder. Track—Fetherston, Asp. Football—Sohn, Brainard, Weber, Anderson. Basketball—Bond, Biggins. The boys tumbled into the boat with all their equipment, hats, helmets, balls, and suits. "Hey, how about us?" shouted Bertha Hafner and Vera Dahlgren. "By golly, girls, you're right. Come on, get in here."

A huge C. I. C. sign drew a cheer from Ralph Jack, Douglas Horn, Charlotte Ray, Clemens Poershke, and Miles Cerny. Smiling at their enthusiasm, Mr. Adventure sent them on their way.

Scribbling in notebooks, the last group scrambled into a boat flying streamer headlines. "Don't forget the deadline," warned Adventure. "Don't worry," answered Mae Belle Finn, "Marv" Hasting, Irma Berner, and Elmer Yavitz in chorus. Vivian Mathison and Ethel Doolittle were busy reading copy.

As he dashed down stairs he remarked, "Hum, just ten words, guess Burton Du Val knows his pocketbooks."

As soon as Jack arrived at the terminal he started shouting orders. "First car—Athlete Special!"

Roy Cousineau pushed through the crowd and presented his ticket—a striking red bat. Then came "Jimmie" Magine dribbling a basket ball across the platform. Philip Yurgens and "Whitey" Lowdick were so busy practicing a forward pass stunt that Wally Weber had to chase them with official dignity and a golf club, to get them into the car. Olga Zimmerman, Clara Oetting, and Bob Stuart "crawled" in with even steady strokes. A particular "racket" arose from the tennis fans when Doris Zack, and Bob Elliott, a pair of net stars, presented their tickets.

A flock of "S's" smiling from the roof of the next car beamed a welcome to Rose Stein, Marion Hebard, Laverne Howard, Virginia Hendrickson and James Woodmansee, who were among those who hurried to join their standard.

Conchita Serra, Dorothy Turney, and Alice Carlson, officers of the History club, and Dorothy Jorgenson of the "Y" club, were escorted with due official honor to their places in the "Club" car; and were followed by Henry Schwartz, Rita Epstein, Arnold Brady, and Loy Callen.

The last car was filled in a few minutes, and as Adventure gave the signal to start, Rosalind Harry, Normah Jane Chidley, and Beryl Collins sang "Adventure Bound" to the tune of "California, Here I Come," while Grace Jonas, Ferrol Diven, and Gwendolyn Hampton waved goodby from the observation platform.

"Da-da-di-dum," Jack was humming the last bars of "Adventure Bound." "That was some trip," he remarked, "I'd like to enjoy one like that every day." On a wise impulse he called, "Austin 3-0-point-5" on the phone and was answered by secretary Dorothea Hatton, who called Bob Kaska. After five minutes conversation with Adventure, Bob and his associates, Frannie Raeder, Carl Meyer, and Hugh Ray, held a conference.

Plans were completed for a class trip to start from the Austin Airport. Adventure was stepping out of a giant passenger plane when the class had assembled, and before long they were all up above the clouds equipped with parachutes.

"Listen, Folks," said Jack, "When I call your name, count three, and jump. Understand?"

Ismene Papageorge, Sari Negrescou, Gladys Goldstein, and Dorothy Moorehead were the first ones called. And as they leaped into space, Adventure said, "They're all right, headed straight for the social room."

A huge auditorium was the destination of the musically inclined, Bill Schultz, Alice Pathman, and Joseph Benson, and a theatre opened its doors to Lois Jacobs, Laura Sher and Pearl Padorr.

The pilot next flew the plane over a quiet field marked "Study Room," and Marie Beck, Jack Finn, Christine Metropolos, Martha Korytar and Belle Altschul floated down like star-dust.

Steadily flying eastward, the plane soon came in sight of Soldier Field. Here James Garrison, Evelyn Benson and Eleanor Gleason landed just in time to take part in the Field meet that was in progress. A few minutes later "Howie" Miller, and "Jip" Clark landed with their megaphones, ready to lead cheers.

The last of the crowd, Harold Tornheim and Russel Larson, made beautiful landings in the lake. Jack, however, wasn't the least bit worried about their safety for he knew they were the "best swimmers ever."

1931—1932

The Zaf Greppelin was making its great cross-continent trip across the land of Education. On board, among other astrologist's instruments, was a huge microscope, the only one of its kind in the world. Its penetrating lens could see everything going on, miles below, with a proximity equal to that of a few feet.

Anaus Tinsof, inventor of the powerful instrument, ordered the crew on board to guide the huge airship in the direction of Austin High School.

The first thing our hero saw was John Mould, grinding away at his camera in a vain endeavor to snap Harold Vaupell, Milton Rosenfeld, Don Canning, and Louis Bilotta while in action. Helplessly offering suggestions to the cameraman was "Bud" McLaren.

The morning Astral club was holding a meeting in the Social room. Helen Leavitt, chairman, announced the reading of the minutes by Shirley Kretschmer. Margaret Redzinski, program chairman, introduced a stunt by Jean Watters, Lorraine Marshall, Charlotte Ray, Evelyn Gilpatrick, Dorothy Potter, Jeanne Voelker, Mildred Schwolow, Frances Iser, June Ward, and Lois Behrle.

During lunch periods Anaus hunted for more of his friends. Bob Creister and Richard Hirt were walking arm in arm down the hall, discussing the junior Hi-Y. Theresa Schuh and Regina Zygmant were "cutting up" at the bulletin board.

Now Anaus began looking for his freshmen friends. Robert Burns was seen carrying a drawing pad and pencils. Norma Ahl, chairman of the morning "Y", was talking with Dorothy Hodgson, Caroline Coumbe, Margaret Stoneman, and Isabelle Rinehart.

Clarence Idarius, absentmindedly rehearsing his next debate, collided with David Pinchouck and his snare drum. Among the amused onlookers were Mary Rasenick, Gertrude Estey, Hazel Sherry, and Herbert Zimmerman.

Ninth period arrived with Betty Gislason, Ruby Zimmerman, and Betty Welch running around the basement in gym clothes.

Came night and not a soul left but the janitor. Filled with happy memories Anaus Tinsof dreamily ordered the continuance of the cross-continent flight.

Ethel Franzen

IN the eye of the camera these four:

"The meeting is called to order." A firm chin and clear eyes survey the room, the sharp ring of the gavel—youth presides.

"Atten-tion"; a uniformed officer, strength, courage, the dashing, daring soldier of dreams. Adventure personified.

"A hush of expectation, the sway of the baton, infinite beauty, a poetry more lovely than words—here—the true artist, forever young.

"All copy in!" five minutes of tense speed, the deadline! And deep in the swift adventure of news—the Editor.

All of them leaders, all of them possessed of the Spirit of Youth and adventure.

With Rudy, as James Cruze, shooting the scenes; the Cooperative Student Organization, with Wilma Kaitschuck, at its head, as Metro-Goldwyn Mayer, "backing" the proposition; and the blackened portable and lilac bushes serving as the tapestry-hung walls of the "set"; the world of Austin High is unfolded before your eyes as one of the greatest productions ever filmed.

With "Peg" McLaren and Helen Lyon co-starring as the leading ladies, and "Bob" Mould and Wilfred Bryant as the heroes—here it is—in all its glory, the first night showing of "Four Years in the Portals of Austin" wherein the development of character, the obtaining of knowledge and the joy of sportsmanship are vividly portrayed.

The theatre is darkened, the camera starts whirring, the film unrolls. The first reel stars the Student Council whose purpose is to promote and govern student activities. Its members consist of the presidents of the C. I. C., Interclub, four upper classes, G. A. A., Varsity "A" and the editor of the Austin Times. The Interclub, which is composed of the presidents of the various clubs, meets to discuss the many school problems and strives to promote better fellowship and school spirit.

The Civic Industrial Club or C. I. C. as it is popularly called is the largest organization in the school and boasts of practically one hundred percent membership. The Clean-Up Campaign is one of the biggest events of the year. Branches of this organization are the Auto Safety and the Fire Marshals. Students attaining a super-honor roll average are eligible to join the Astral Club which is Austin's honorary society.

The College Club is an organization whose purpose is to acquaint girls with college life. Some worthy girl, who would otherwise be unable to attend college, is awarded a scholarship every semester.

Oh! the film has broken—be patient please, dear audience, the cameraman is doing his best to repair it.

Helen Lyon, Pres.; Catherine Wood, Scribe; Miss Deaton, Adviser.

The Spanish, French, German, Latin and Italian Clubs are made up of students interested in the various languages.

The History, Biology and Architectural Clubs are organized for the purpose of stimulating interest in these subjects.

Students attaining the grade of "E" in English are eligible to join the Pentong, a literary club which discusses the fine arts.

One of the largest girls' clubs is the "Y" or Girl Reserves, a high school branch of the Y. W. C. A. Many of the girls took part in "The Fete of the Nations," the annual Hi-Jinks performance. In all of the "Y" projects all of the lower classmen as well as the upper are urged to take part. Once a month a supper is given at the West Side Y. W. C. A. The theme for this semester was "Cathedral Stairs" and this was carried out at the meetings.

The Hi-Y, a branch of the Y. M. C. A. is a club for boys and is based upon just about the same principles as the "Y." The Jr. Hi-Y is for younger boys.

The science clubs, the Hi-Mu, Chemistry, Aviation and Hobby hold demonstrations and discuss topics closely related to them.

The Cartoonists Club is for the students interested in art.

The Home Economics Club is for the girls. To be eligible one must take a Domestic Science Course.

The Board of Health is a new organization of Austin with the purpose of bettering the health of the students of the school.

The Little Theatre produces a play every year. The play given this year was "Daddy Long-Legs."

The Debating Team has won much renown thruout Chicago for the brilliant arguments it presents.

The curtain has drawn, the theatre is illuminated and the audience departs. Though many of the leading actors have left for other roles, the spirit that prevailed thruout the filming of the movie will live forever.

In the city-wide contest, on May 29, in which twenty-one schools competed at Stagg Field, Austin won two first places.

Austin's picked company won first place with a grade of 95.5; the highest grade ever given a picked company, and since 91.9 was the nearest grade, the highest marginal victory ever awarded. The company was ably commanded by Capt. Richard Jones, with Major Joseph Minardi and Capt. Ralph Grondahl as platoon commanders. The trophy is a silver cup given by the University of Chicago.

The other first place was attained by the entire regiment in the annual review; the trophy here, being also a silver cup. The regiment was commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Litchfield with Majors Arthur Sauer and Joseph Minardi as battalion commanders.

L'Allegro

We want the staff room in the new school to have:

An eight tube radio set so we can get all the latest stock reports and, incidentally, tune in on baseball games.

A direct connection with the new social room so we can get the latest club news and possibly some refreshments. (This is very important.)

NOTE—Bill Finn requests that an automatic headline writer be placed in a prominent position.

A nice, big vat of paste, so we can spray the page in one motion and place the dummy on in the next. We know Gene loves to smear the paste with her fingers, but for the sake of dear old Alma Mater she must place personal passions below her.

And, lastly, a huge supply of thumb tacks that do not have to be taken out of a board with a chisel and a pair of plyers. This will prevent Elmer Yavitz, sported, from borrowing tacks from every page except his own.

* * *

(Adv.) (Adv.) (Adv.)
CRAB! GRAB! GRAB! GRAB!
Eats! Eats! Eats!

The lunch room in the new school will open up with full athletic equipment. Ping-pong sets will be furnished to work up an appetite, while golf can be played at each table. We guarantee every table cloth to have at least eighteen holes.

(Adv.) (Adv.) (Adv.)

* * *

DEVELOP YOUR SHOULDERS!
Become popular overnight.
Get on Austin's football team.
Exercise.

Rise at six o'clock in the morning. Take all your coats and sling them in one motion over your left shoulder. Breathing deeply, walk around the new school six times. This will give you time to see what Austin has become. (Compliment). Then take nearest surface line to door of tailor. With long strides enter his abode. For ten dollars he will pad your shoulders until you look like a two-hundred pound football player. You will immediately lose your inferiority complex, becoming the idol of the school.

* *

The time nears when we must part from the old school and enter the new. We've waited for years and now that we have it—think, if possible, of what we're leaving. (Splash, splash . . . . . clank. . . . —tear drops).

No more will faculty members, notably Cubby, Colonel Tiernan, and David Cole be able to pull that ancient crack originated around 1908, "When the new school is built your grandchildren will proably be young enough to attend," and get a few gasps from the students wanting a drag.

No longer will Miss Glynn have to carry on rehearsals for plays in the space between the desk and the portable wall, forcing the butler to squeeze by the blackboard, collecting a generous supply of chalk dust on his back. (No play is very good unless it has a butler. Having buttled in various Little Theatre productions we think we're entitled to think we can buttle.)

No longer will we be interrupted in the midst of a Latin translation in Cubby's class by the thrice . . . . . blessed rivetting.

MARV.

A-U-S-T-I-N! Yeah, Austin!

Cheering crowds—screaming pennants—flying colors—excitement—ninth inning tensity—score 0-0—two outs—last man up—crack—whizz! "There goes the ball!" "Ho-me run! My team won! Yeah team!" "My team lost! Yeah team!" And youth played the game.

So in Life's Stadium, the games are won and lost. With the same fervor, the same absorbing love of the game and joy of winning, the teams of the moment are playing to score; while the whole crowd joins in the greatest game of all—just living.

Sport Highlight

Mr. Feddersen again was the coach in charge of the Austin High School Baseball Squad during the 1929 season.

After the opening day's victory over Marshall, the team coupled some very timely hitting with some very good pitching by Earl Wilson to finish the first round with four victories and only one loss, the latter to Harrison, 2-1.

The last round opened with Harrison in first place, and when the Hornets lost twice while the Austinites were mauling McKinley and Tuley, pennant hopes went soaring.

However, the toughest part of the schedule was crammed into the next two weeks, and though Harrison was beaten, May 21, Crane had an easy time winning, May 24, with Wilson in the box for the second time in four days.

The following Tuesday, Marshall shattered Maroon and White title hopes by winning, 9-8, the game giving Crane a clear title to first place and leaving Austin and Harrison in a tie for second.

This defeat dropped the Feddersenites to third place in the final standings.

* * *

The junior ice-skaters once again regained the championship title of their respective class when they took first place in the all-city meet held at Lincoln Park last January. The seniors, however, were narrowed out of first position by Tilden Tech, who finished on the top with two points ahead of Austin. Led by Capt. "Wil" Kanning, the heavyweight cagers climaxed the year in third position by winning eight and losing four games. The season was featured by a basket shutout over Medill which was the only blanking of its kind administered in the city basketball league. Statistics further indicate that the local lights finished fifth in the final standing with a percentage of won and lost games vice versa to that of the "heavies."

* * *

Another championship was won for Austin when the junior relay swimming team took first place in the city meet held at the Lake Shore Athletic Club. Of their many victories of the year, the local natators won the interscholastic classic when they decisively defeated Oak Park in a contest held at the former's pool.

The Varsity "A" Club, composed of Austin High School letter winners, has completed its third successful semester. The organization was guided by Coach Ring as faculty adviser; and John Zepp as president. Other officers were Robert Niesen, vice-president; and William Tauber, secretary and treasurer.

Probably the most important project taken up was the attempt to establish a standard for athletic awards. The Intramural Basketball tournament was also under its supervision, while an active part was taken in the non-smoking area drive.

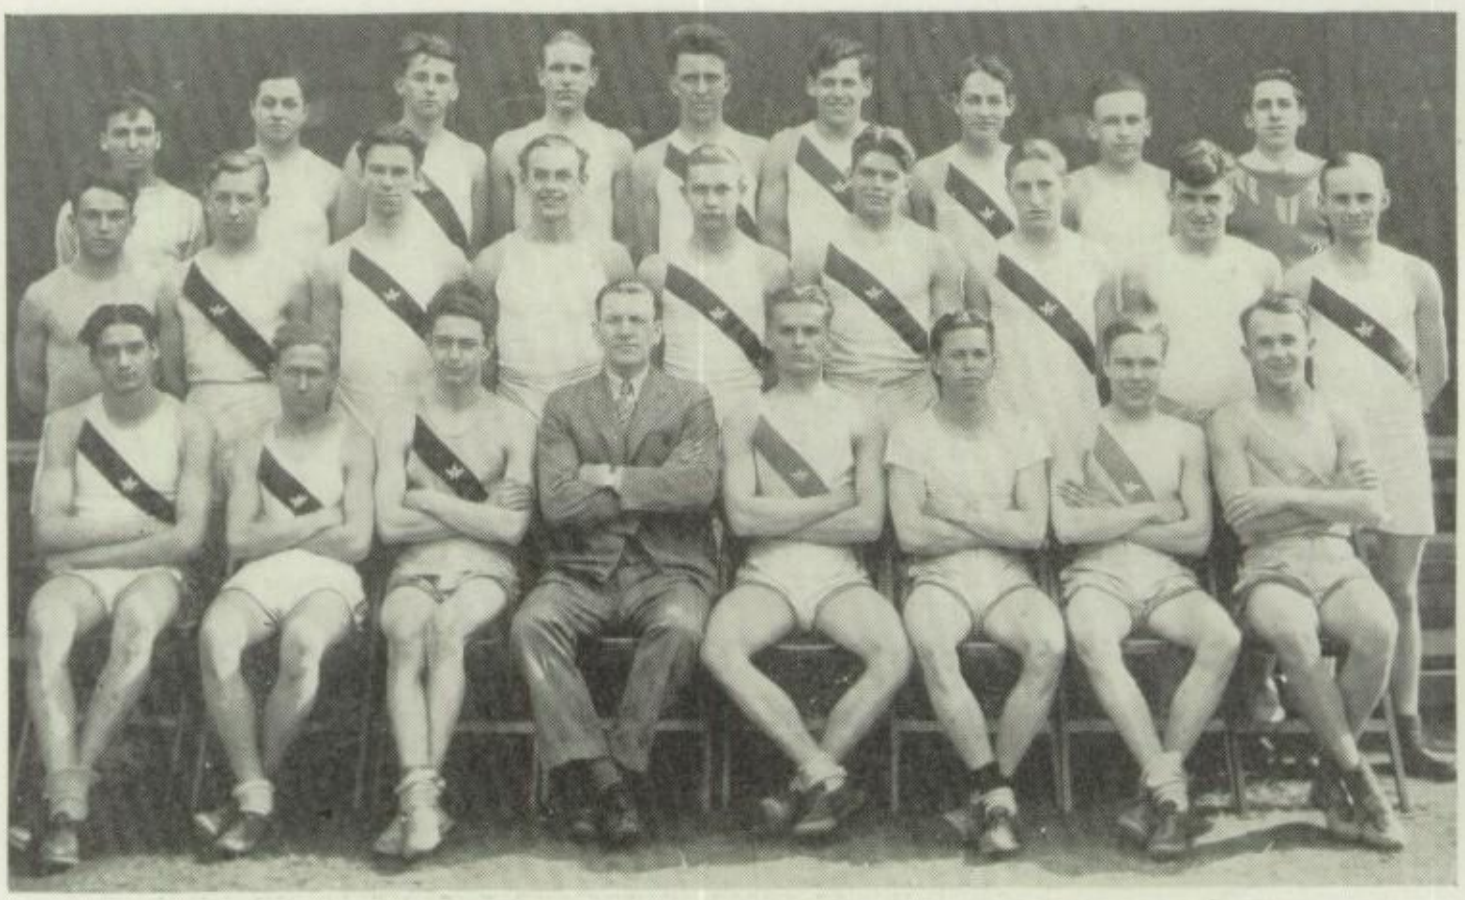
Senior Track



Although this season was not a very successful one from the standpoint of meets won, the Maroon and White senior tracksters have competed against some of the best in the state.

The local athletes have engaged such schools as Morgan Park M. A., Proviso, Morton, and Lake Forest Academy.

In both the state preliminaries and the city meet held this year, the senior aggregation placed. The new finds were made when Henry Olyniec and "Arny" Meister came out for the pastime. "Hank" ran the half mile and did it under record time. He set a record in his event at Proviso when he ran the distance in two minutes and nine and eight-tenths seconds.

Meister has made a steady improvement in the shot putting line since he came out for the sport. "Arny" now heaves the twelve-pound ball around thirty-eight feet in almost every meet. Other new men who joined the team this year and are steadily improving are "Wil" Kanning, Paul Plach, Fred Pellar, Alan Doner, and Milton Maass.

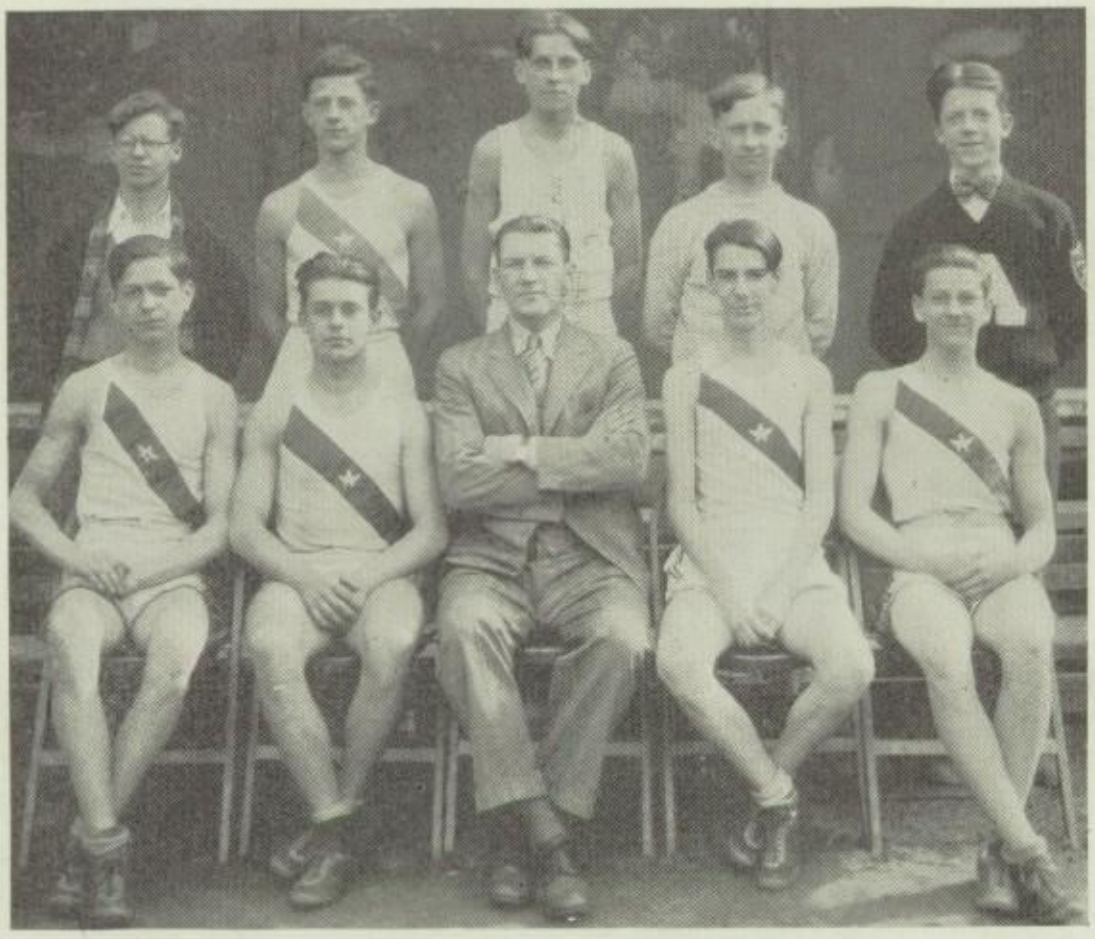
Junior Track



The junior cindermen are closing a very successful year. They were beaten only by Proviso. Because of the absence of Austin's high jumper, Proviso took first place and the meet. The final score was 48 to 47.

In this same meet one record was broken and one tied. "Howie" Asp broke the standing mark of 98 ft. in the discus with a heave of 107 ft., 11 in. The 50 yd. mark was tied when little George Moore ran the distance in 5.6 sec., against the wind.

The next meet was with Morton High school of Cicero township. Austin swamped the Mortonites for the fourth successive year with a score of 48 to Morton's 39.

One of the most noteworthy events in this meet was the record-breaking performance of Johnny Freemuth in the shot put. John put the old mark of 38 ft., 6 in. in discard with a toss of 44 ft., 11 in. "Howie Asp" also broke the record. "Howie" bettered his own mark on the discus by tossing the platter 108 ft. even.

Most noteworthy of the junior "rookies" who are showing up good in their daily workouts are Freemuth who throws the shot and discus, Kaska who runs the 660 and high jumps, Garrison, another 660 runner, and Pick, a dashman

Junior and Senior Skaters

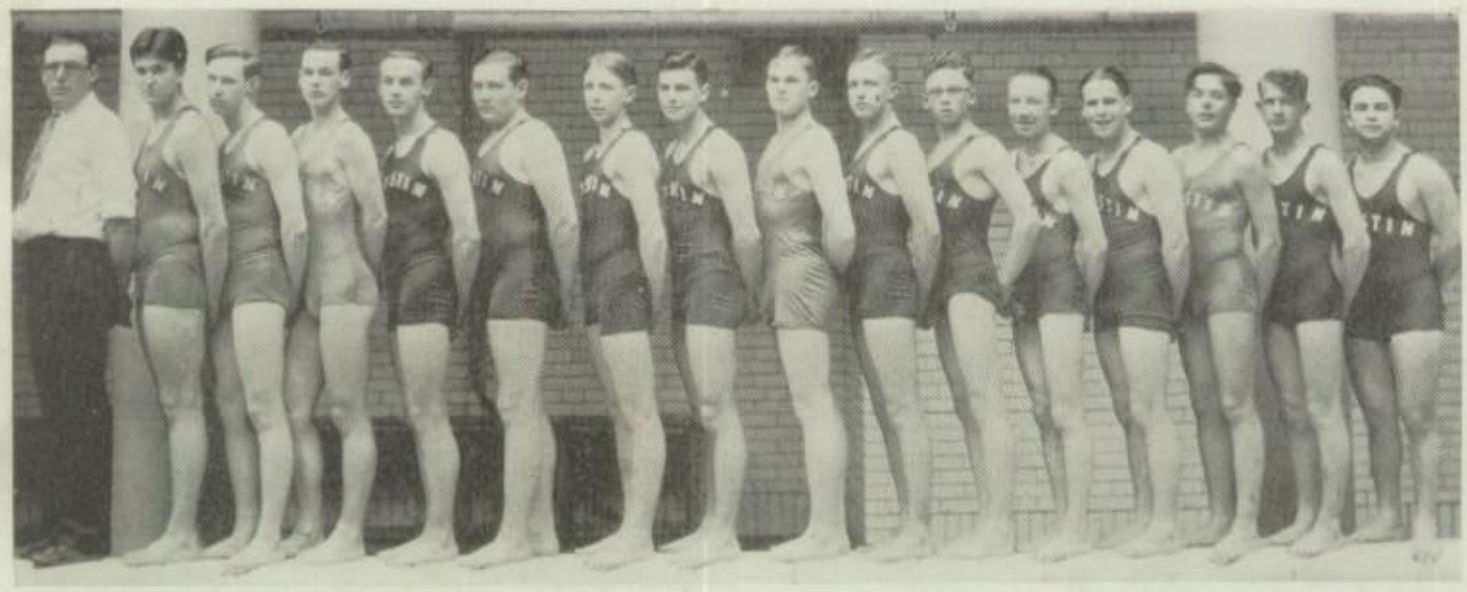
Collins Pastor Holmquest Rabe Sullivan Pritchard Bryant
Dawson Sider Walsh Carlson Preston Anderson
Fehling Bryant Moore Rosenfeld Exler

Skaters bearing the Maroon and White colors brought home first and second honors in the seventh annual high school skating derby. In the senior division, Austin finished second while the juniors regained the title which has been for years at the local school.

In the junior championship division Moore finished first in the 220 yard dash while Anderson was fourth. Dawson took fourth in the 440 yard race but Anderson and Erler finished first and second respectively in the 880, with Rosenfeldt fourth. In the half-mile relay Austin took fourth place.

In the senior skating competition Austin was nosed out of first place by Tilden who finished first by two points. "Wil" Bryant, captain of both junior and senior squads, placed second in the 440 yard dash, while Jack Pastor beat all competitors in the 880 yard race. The mile relay which decided the meet was won by Tilden with Austin finishing second. This was Mr. Collins' first year as coach of the teams; he expects to develop its members into complete championship caliber for the two banners to be won next season.

Senior Swimmers



Coach Heitman, (Capt.) Wittman, Vau Pell, Dussmann, Hoelzer, Smith, Shirreffs, Goodman, Clute, Hollatz, Christians, Graham, MacDonald, Pastor, Pritchard, Krissman

Senior Swimming Team

With one of the largest schedule of meets it ever had, the senior tankmen finished the year in very successful fashion. The nine men that excel in crawl stroking in the senior division are Wittman, Hoelzer, Smith, Graham, Clute, Dussmann, Goodman and Christians. At the back stroke Austin has Kester, Shirreffs, Pritchard, and Christians. Probably the best breast stroker on the squad is Kolve who is the fastest in this phase of competition. The four fancy divers who win points are: Dussmann, Kolve, Smith, and Pastor. The 220 yard men are Dussmann, Clute and Christians. Squadmen who received letters from Coach Heitman are: Captain Wittman, Vaupell, Hancock, Smith, Westrich, Kolve, Hoelzer, Christians, Pritchard, Larson, Dussmann, and Pastor.

Of the various tank records held by the individual swimmers Captain Bill Wittman, who graduates this semester, holds the 40 and 100 yard crawl. Hoelzer, another graduate, holds the 220 yard crawl.

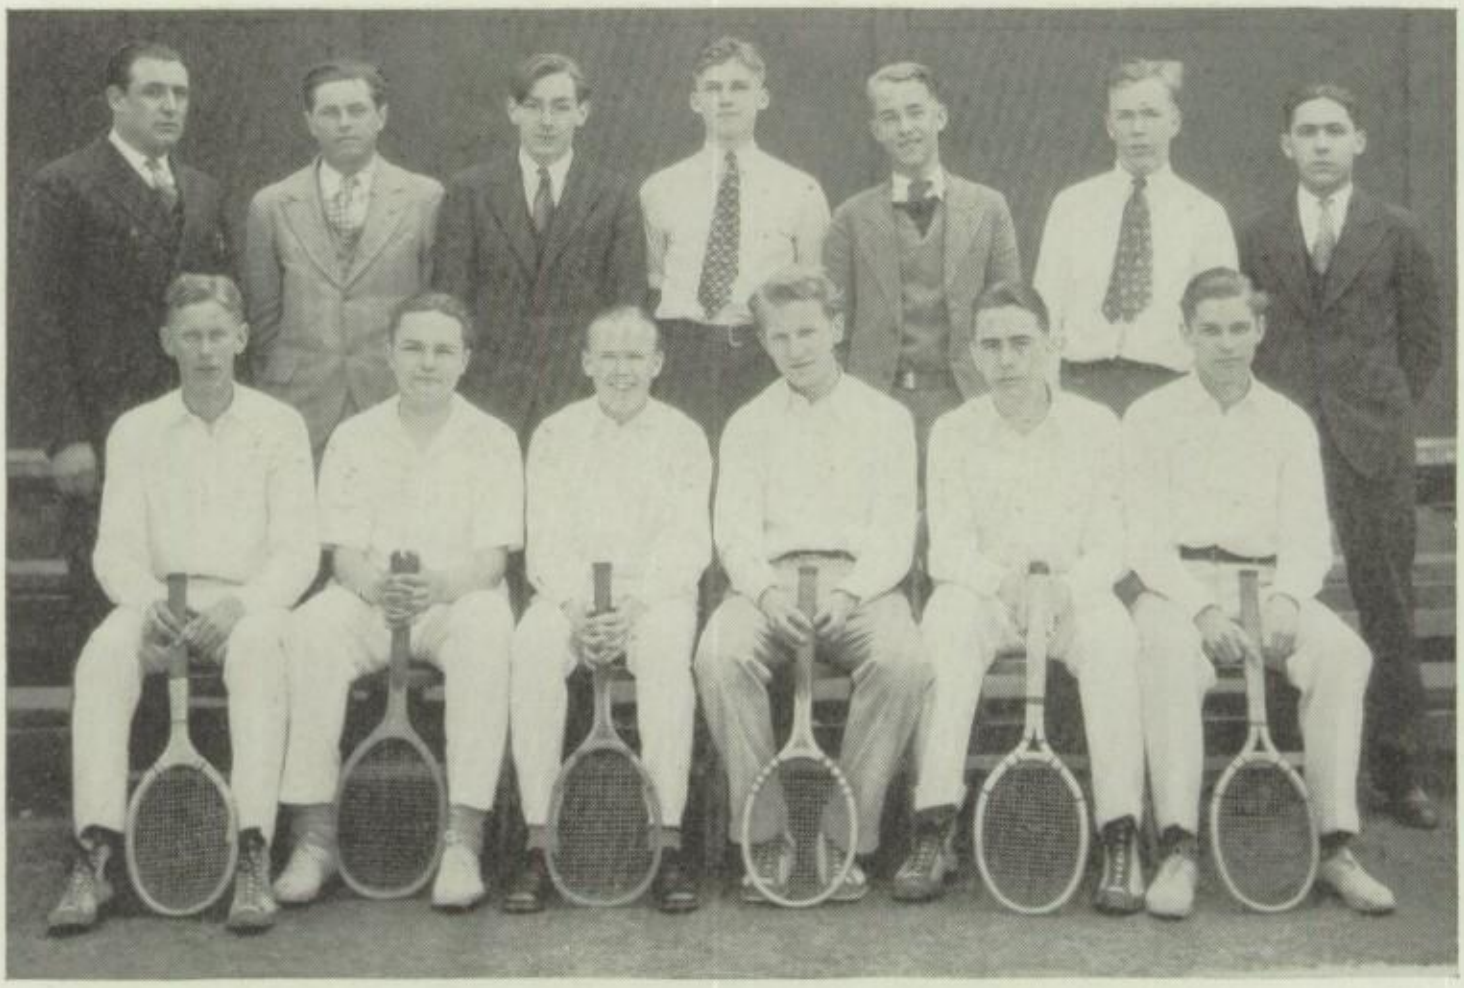
Junior Swimmers

Hayes Dawson Westrich (Capt.) Asp Stewart Larson Watts Bowler Tornheim Swenson Metropolous

Junior Swimming Team

Natators of the junior aggregation of the Maroon and White swimming team finished one of the busiest and most successful splashing campaigns in years. Not only do statistics indicate that the swimmers compiled nearly a hundred more points than their opponents but also shows that the suburban school, Oak Park, was thrown for a complete loss in its contest with Heitman's proteges. On April 27 at the city meet held at the Lake Shore Athletic Club the juniors again won, the junior relay team taking first place and the city championship. At this meet Hayes, a local junior, placed third in the fancy diving competition. The various swimmers of this division are Stewart, Westrich, Bowler, Metropolis, Vaupell, Larson, Watts, and Swensen, at the crawl stroke, while Asp, Tornheim, Dawsen, and Westrich are the breast strokers, Vaupell, Larson, and Ellingwood perform at the back stroke while Hayes, Asp, and Anderson are the fancy divers.

Tennis Team



Mr. Heitman Blum Tontz Thoms Larson Radke Benson
Gundersen Cookman Burns Elliott Negrescou Wais

Tennis enjoyed another successful season when "Bob" Elliot, Austin's star ranking player, captured every one of his games without having a single defeat chalked up against him. Winning all of his sets in the championship finals with Harrison last month, "Bob" was unable to bring the banner home when his comrades fell on the short end of the score. Johnny Burns, a veteran star of many semesters, and captain of the tennis team, is singing his alma mater this June. His gap will be hard to fill and his loss will be keenly felt by the team. Toward the latter part of this semester a number of enthusiastic girls formed the tennis club under the guidance of Miss Funk with Evelyn Benson as president and Ethel Freeman as secretary-treasurer. Doris Zack is captain and Eleanor Gleason, program chairman.

The girls' swimming team, which has been organized this semester for the first time, is composed of the girls who won first places in a previous swimming meet. Helen Rashke has made a great name for herself by breaking the back stroke record in A. A. F. Olga Zimmerman swims regularly at the I. W. A. C.

The winners of the events in the last swimming meet are as follows: 40 yd. crawl, Olga Zimmerman; breast stroke (speed) Mildred Miller; breast stroke (form), Lucylle Vallo; side stroke (speed), Olga Zimmerman; side stroke (form), Clara Oetting; back stroke (form), Mildred Miller; back stroke, 20 yd. (speed), Olga Zimmerman; Plunge for distance, Helen Raschke; Diving, Clara Oetting.

Honor rolls on which are placed names of the girls who have showed ability and perseverance in swimming and diving are as follows:

Diving: L. Vallo, O. Zimmerman, S. Doseff, C. Oetting, R. Schultz, R. Williams, M. Miller, E. Fehrm, E. Levin, B. Wood.

Swimming: R. Mikolsek, M. Miller, E. Fehrm, H. Rashke, R. Schultz, D. Zack, G. Meyer, L. Vallo, S. Doseff, O. Zimmerman, R. Williams, H. Brinkman, J. Brinkman, E. Kolinsky, B. Wood.

"Cheer, cheer, cheer our G. A. A.!" This is one of the many songs of the most enthusiastic club at Austin. Four of the many interesting features of the semester were: a song contest, an all girls' health assembly, a track meet, and a swimming meet. The song contest, a novel idea held for the purpose of making the new G. A. A. song book, was won by Frances Raeder with Mildred Sweitzer, Ethel Freeman, Lucylle Vallo, and "Billie" Wood, taking second third, fourth, and fifth positions respectively. The health assembly was the first of its kind ever staged at Austin.

At the G. A. A. luncheon held last semester, the following girls were awarded their letters: "Billie" Wood, Jerry Faust, Mildred Dreffein, Bertha Hafner, Irene Nelson, Grace Jonas, Dorothy Gray, and Vera Dahlgren. Miss Vera Gardner, assistant supervisor of girls' athletics in the city public schools, presented the letters.

The championship volleyball team was skillfully captained by Harriet Dillon and composed of Lillian Nixon, Ruth Milkolsek, Vera Dahlgren, Doris Gibson, and Bernice Woloskiewicz.

A PEN is a sort of winged Pegasus. The feathered quill of one author flies back two centuries to the gay French court of Louis Quinze; a battered waterman takes us through jungled Africa on a hunting expedition; and an old fashioned spencerian bares a prim New England romance. We hope our own private horse, prancing over these Austin Pen Sketches will prove a magic Pegasus, too, and carry the class of '29 back to Austin mounted on gay bits of poetry and prose.

Beloved Receptacle

I'm thinking now
As often before
Of my old tin locker
On the second floor.

It was always too full,
No one could doubt,
For every time I opened it
The insides fell out.

Its shelves were groaning
Like nobody knows
With Twenty-four Centuries
Of Poetry and Prose—

A battered Vergil
Sans many a page,
A couple of physics books
Feeble with age.

On the floor, mixed up
In a paper hash
Were my old report-cards
And other trash.

No wonder the mice inside
Grew thinner—
They had nothing but gym-shoes
And test-papers for dinner.

Six hundred times
I opened it, and then
Five hundred ninety-nine
I closed it again.

I'd like to remark
Before too late
What a lucky break I had
In my locker-mate.

And gee! but I'm lonely,
As often before,
For the old tin locker
On the second floor!

I couldn't understand it—I don't yet. It was one of those soft, warm afternoons that seem to snuggle comfortably around your chin and float you up and up—gentle and swaying—up. I fancy it was somewhere between the topmost leaf of the tallest tree, and the hem of some breeze's cloud-gown, when something drifted mistily past my eyes.

It was a diminutive, dusty Venus patting a grimy curl in place with one invisible hand, and clinging to her clipped plaster robe with the other. She had her head a little to one side (most plaster Venuses do) and seemed to be peeking coyly around the corner to throw a coquetish glance at a huge portrait of Lincoln. Of course I can't be altogether sure, but I actually believe that one eyelid lowered quite perceptibly for a moment, and, ridiculous thought, the portrait's sad smile seemed to grow a bit gayer and the kind eyes brightened.

"Aha, an affair," I thought, and, urged on by an irresistible curiosity that danced after me, I was about to ask, "How long has this been going on?" when suddenly – – – – –

"Lincoln – – – – Venus – – – – An affair – – – – astonishing!" I heard myself babbling out loud, "Why, what was I saying?"

Then the voice of historical authority came, jolting me tumblingly back to reality – – – "Miss, I've already asked you twice – – – – name five reasons why History is romantic!"

On ordinary days my friends at school
Are just plain boys with dull civilian ways;
Their clothes are smart, collegiate as a rule;
But you should see them on the other days!
Their names aren't Bob and Edward any more—
They're Sergeants now, and Captains, if you please!
They wind their long, long legs (too long before)
In yards of khaki tape, or tight puttees.
I'm proud to point them out as friends of mine,
They look so very soldier-like and tall;
Their khaki is so brave, their air so fine,
They're almost soldier-boys . . . But after all—
I'm awf'lly glad that they don't have to be Real ones, instead of just R. O. T. C.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1929

When in the course of high school events it so happens that one class, having by a series of unprecedented miracles completed four years of unceasing scholastic labor, is about to graduate, something really should be done about it. Therefore, we, the class of '29 have decided, first, that all men are created equal, except seniors, juniors, sophs, and frosh; and, second, that during these four years we have become endowed with certain inimitable (see L'Allegro) talents. Of course, we think it expedient that we leave the aforesaid talents to our successors, the class of '29½, in order that this noble institution of learning may not forget our unforgetable class.

We will begin by leaving, intact but somewhat worn, our undying hope that we would be the first class to receive the little rolls of parchment from the stage of the auditorium of the new school, and we only hope that it will not come to the same sad end that it did in our class.

To those not on the track team, we bequeath our well-known inability to dash from the third floor down to the locker in the portable and back to a class on the third floor in the unbelievably short time of five minutes.

And now, if only to defy all traditions and put them in a class will, we leave to the freshmen that buoyant feeling of superiority which comes when one is passing the assembly hall on the opening day and sees the incoming "freshies" sweating over the entrance tests and which feeling is promptly dispelled when some dignitary insults one by trying to herd one in the hall with the objects of one's scorn.

To the girls, en masse, we leave the rare privilege of contesting for the most desirable crown which now reposes so snugly on the shapely head of—— (well, in-as-much as we must sign this all-important document, we imagine the safest procedure will be to leave a blank space and allow the reader to write in what he will).

To the lowly R. O. T. C. rookies the haughty, superior, graduating officers leave the ambition to rise to the position where they can bark the commands instead of being the humble, obedient recipients of the short, terse orders.

The boys of the class should feel elated for Bob Franzen has condescended to leave his hand-stand championship to be awarded to the boy best qualified to receive it.

THEY'LL SOON BE ALL RIGHT

If you should see Henry Olyniec walking about the hall with a smile on his handsome visage, 'tis merely because he has learned that Wil Bryant has left him his ability to be a successful class president and still find time to extend himself in various other lines of endeavor (including the acquisition of knowledge).

To the next editors of our publications, Genevieve Dilger and Virginia Mueller leave their rare executive abilities and their genius in getting people to make at least a feeble attempt to do even the most difficult assignments so that they come in on time.

To Marian Keane, Jeanne Hoch leaves her utterly fearless attitude toward Mr. Wareham's terrifying "No verbee, no passee" rule (ask our French class).

To Coach Ring, we leave our best wishes for success in his search for a footballer who can punt like one Johnny Zepp.

Bill Hoelzer, the well-known checker expert of our class, leaves to Henry Schwartz his prowess at this noble game. (Alas! Alack! Bill has deserted the amateur ranks and succumbed to the wiles of professionalism.)

Johnny Burns, the versatile loudspeaker of "Sport Chatter" leaves his successor that wonderful ability to chatter amusingly on all and sundry subjects, including spats. (He's going to take his skill in tennis with him into other circles. He may become a "pro" too, who knows?)

To Benny Sohn, Bill Tauber leaves his amazing skill at collecting major letters for his worthy efforts in the several sports.

To the next staff typists, Helen Pinchouck and Olga de la Pena leave, among other things, their uncanny knack at deciphering the somewhat mysterious bits of journalistic hieroglyphics; their inability to find the ever-elusive copy paper; and, last but not least, a pair of very decrepit typewriters that must have passed the board's pension age very long ago, and whose ribbons are so temperamental that they produce anything from almost invisible characters to those that stare one in the face like bold type.

To Leucothoe (y'know, it's only Ted Fetherston), our fellow-contributor, Yarrum (merely Bill Murray) leaves his absolutely inexplicable success in "crashin' the colyum" with the worst jokes we ever heard (no professional jealousy, y'understand) and still walk the halls unmolested (simply miraculous, that's all!)

To Vivian Mathison, we bequeath Frances Gordon's ability to write verse (blank?) either spontaneously or on demand (if you don't know what that last means just ask someone who has been in the staff room and was suddenly confronted with a request for a good poem, pronto).

Jimmy Magine is hereby notified that he gets Wil Kanning's most accurate eye for neatly dropping the enlarged spheroid through the somewhat inaccessible hoop of the enemy from some really impossible angles without even disturbing the meshes.

Gather 'round, fellow students (?) for one of the big surprises of the evening. "Peg" McLaren has caused a great deal of speculation by the startling announcement that she will put forth in words, if possible, the secret of her great popularity, and then take said secret and enclose it in a sealed envelope, after which procedure it will be given to some exceedingly fortunate person.

Bill Wittman, one of the Maroon and White's outstanding mermen, has nominated "Duke" Westrich as the gentleman who is to receive his ability to negotiate several lengths of the tank in quite remarkable time.

To the next business manager of this annual goes Wilma Kaitschuck's phenomenal success in a position which is popularly supposed to be suited to male persons only.

To the student who will call at the staff room and prove that he needs it the most, will be given Don Peters' ability to do, in class and before the teacher decides to collect it, homework that has either been forgotten or maliciously(!) neglected, and to do it in such a way as to convince the teacher that it is well prepared.

Now, as long as we have disposed of practically every article of value, we do hereby declare that "Pat," the police officer to whom we leave our undying gratitude for stopping the flow of traffic for us each morning at Lake street, shall be given the sole power as executor of this, the last will and testament of the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine of Austin High School, and we rest secure in the knowledge that he will carry out its terms to the best of his ability.

In witness whereof (we being commonly suspected of being quite sound in mind and body, even though this document may not be a very good proof of it) we do hereby affix our signature. (Signed) William Finn

My Tower

"—Stately, aloof, her regal head held high
Aristocratic outline on the sky – – – – "

I have seen her in the full sun, splendid and shining, with sudden deep shadows sharp against her brilliance.

I have watched her moods against the sky—gayly red on turquoise, grim and black against gray, and dancing under a swerving line of smoke across the sun.

I have seen, on a soft warm night, a star come near, to rest upon her shoulder, and watched the moon gently kiss a blessing on her brow.

But once I stood in the heart of her: Four strong walls and grey silence, nothing more, except perhaps, a sudden ray from the square of sky above. Serene and calm she was—still lovely.

Then of a sudden she sighed, a soft, low sigh that whispered in my heart. It may have been only the swift wind that raced about her blowing wildly, and it may have been that she was a little tired, a little sad to watch her only rival rising to greet her.

A. H. S. Student to Her Friend — Sick at Home

Dear Obstreperous Rita:

Was reduced to a pulp when forced to grapple with the idea that your anatomy wasn't hitting on all fours. Have been moving around in a morbid mood all day. Of course, you know that this was the fatal day for receiving the billet doux from our fond teachers—a huge crop of "Ds" were harvested and a good time was had by all.

You will be interested to hear of our bereavement, that is to say, Clara and Cordelia, pedigreed guinea pigs, members of our zoology class and fond god-daughters of Misses Kollman and Randolph have kicked the bucket.

Cubby has blossomed forth like a spring flower in a tie hot enough to melt the Polar regions, thus, as always, he is a blooming teacher.

War is declared in our English class against Charleston Chews, so come back toot sweet.

Confectionately,
Tod

The Friend's Answer

Time—The swollenest stage of the mumps.
Place—A perfectly miserable bed.

Toddie darling—

Here I am absolutely bursting with mumps. I look like a rabbit, with a dumb old bandage tied on my brain case. (Never knew my bean was so slippery). Please pester Mr. Tew 'till he informs you what breed of bacteria are infecting me and are responsible for this obstreperous disease. (Honest when my blov'd medecin man takes the junk off I look like flaming youth personified, it's really a nightmare, I mean my image is.)

Say, Miss Randolph shipped me my card, gee, it was a billet tart (or however you say sour in French). Its trimmings were so red that they scorched the envelope.

Isn't it just too sorry about those perfectly precious pigs tho'? Misses Kollman and Randolph must be in sack cloth and ashes or something like that.

Tod, please don't talk about such eatable things as Charleston Chews while I'm choking on mushy baby foods.

Please write again soon and spill all the gossip.

Mumpily yours,
Rita

To All of Austin's Graduates

GREETINGS to our graduates, the people who have set up objects and have achieved them.

You have improved yourselves, you have grown into larger worlds of thought and experience, but one of the greatest things you have done is to bring a good will to man, a spirit of courage and loyalty that counts much toward the satisfaction that comes to all of us. You bring cheer and hope to your parents, your teachers and your friends. You challenge us to keep up with you and match your zeal in going ahead with your ambitions. Our best wishes go with you.

Organizations and Clubs of the Orr Branch

The clubs and student organizations at the Orr Branch are responsible for the drafting and execution of almost all the campaigns and rules affecting the school. They also have charge of assembly programs and other entertainments.

The C. I. C. is an organization which has a 100% student enrollment. Every pupil of the school is a member. Each semester the student pays a dime and receives a pin in return, the major part of the money collected being used to buy soap and towels for the washrooms. The club takes a big part in the clean-up campaigns also. A representative is elected from each section at the beginning of the semester.

The Student Council has twenty-five members. Its purpose is to keep the school clean and orderly. The members work in team from the second to twelfth periods. They keep the washrooms supplied with soap and towels, appoint hall guards, supply rooms with chalk and erasers, and clean up the rooms and halls.

The Dramatic Club offers students the opportunity of learning poise and grace in the art of speaking and acting. The Club presents plays at assemblies and at the annual Hi-Jinks. Miss Lucille Current is the director of the club. This semester the club has a total of about thirty members.

The purpose of the Girls' Glee Club is to furnish songs for assemblies, concerts, and the Hi-Jinks. A member of the Glee Club must be a fairly good singer, have the seventh period free, and be willing to stay the whole period to practice. There are thirty-one members in the club this semester.

The purpose of the Honor Society is to encourage the pupils to raise their scholarship records. In order to be eligible to join one must have attained the Super-Honor Roll three times during one semester. Last semester the membership was forty-six. The club has charge of one assembly each semester, and at the last one gave a very interesting play.

The Branch Girl Reserves are proud to say that their membership for this semester of about one hundred ninety-five girls is the largest it has ever been. The slogan of the Girl Reserves is "To face life squarely," and the purpose is "To find and give the best and to make this world a happier place in which to live in for being in it." Any girl may become a member. Entertainment played a large part in the "Y" work of this semester due to the plan of appointing girls into interest groups headed by a chairman. The candy booth, which is out in the corridor every Friday, might be called a part of the Service Committee. Every semester the "Y" does a great deal of service work for the benefit of the poor and needy people. They also presented clothing to the Little Wanderers' Day Nursery.

HAY BRANCH

Greetings from the Hay Branch

THE spirit of youth is the spirit of adventure. Lindbergh crossed the ocean at twenty-five. The new president of the University of Chicago is just thirty. True, Edison and others have accomplished great things late in life, but such accomplishment is the fruition of the dreams of their youth.

Youth, daring, dauntless, buoyant, hopeful, forward looking, is ever anxious to solve the problems of the world.

Before getting too far out from shore on the voyage of life, it is well to look after safety appliances. Volumes could be filled of the records of failure of those who did not or would not avail themselves of the wisdom of the ages. The mature world can yet give something of guidance and assurance to youth. It can learn much from youth.
